

Valeria and Ellie Mae & Thorsten drive cars through paint and then drive them through the city.

Children use a pulley and basket to raise and lower blocks in the construction site.

Children take turns operating a front loader.

Prinsha, Gabriel, and Christopher drive construction vehicles through a construction zone in the sensory table.

February 2015

Students have been watching workers install solar panels on our playground. Construction workers are also building apartments near our school. To capitalize on children's interests in what is happening around us, I have taken small groups of children to see beginning construction of the apartments. In these pictures you see children playing and recreating what they have viewed.

Erin